1. Introduction

- a Major incidents or emergencies can strike suddenly, unexpectedly and anywhere. Many agencies have a part in dealing with the disaster and its aftermath. The effectiveness of the total response will depend on how well the emergency services, local authorities and other emergency response organisations have prepared their arrangements and emergency procedures.

2. Purpose of the Plan

- a To provide a framework to achieve a timely and efficient response by the Parish Council in assisting the multi-agency response to a major incident.

3. What is an Emergency/Major Incident?

An emergency can be defined as:

- ◆ An event or situation which threatens serious damage to human welfare
- ◆ An event or situation which threatens serious damage to the environment
- ◆ War, or terrorism, which threatens serious damage to security

Source: Civil Contingencies Act 2004

Major incidents are characterised by causing widespread disruption, injury to people and damage to property on a scale beyond the capacity of the emergency services, local authorities or the NHS operating under normal circumstances and requiring the special mobilisation and organisation of those services.

The aim of any emergency plan is to alleviate the effects of a major incident on the public, community and environment.

Major incidents/emergencies can be divided into four broad categories:

- ◆ Natural such as flooding, storms and snow
- ◆ Accidental where human error or technical failure causes the emergency such as an aircraft crash
- ◆ Planned where the emergency occurs as a result of terrorist or criminal action
- ◆ Disruption where, for some reason, essential services are not available for a significant length of time e.g. gas and electricity.

4. Emergency Planning in Hertfordshire

- a Disasters vary in their effects on society and the environment. They demand a combined response, which links the expertise and resources of the emergency services, local authorities and, if necessary, other agencies and voluntary organisations.
- b All services and agencies involved in a combined response will work to a set of common objectives which will help to:
 - 1) prevent escalation of the disaster
 - 2) save life
 - 3) relieve suffering
 - 4) restore normality as soon as possible
 - 5) protect property
 - 6) facilitate criminal investigation and judicial, public, technical or other inquiries as appropriate
- c The Police, Fire and Rescue and Ambulance Service will normally handle the immediate aftermath of any disaster. Their tasks will include life-saving, rescue, body recovery, investigation, the preservation of evidence and the maintenance of public order. Local authorities will be called upon to support them making available their services and resources.
- d Hertfordshire Resilience partnership was formed in 2006, following the introduction of the Civil Contingencies Act 2004, to facilitate the combined response to emergencies/major incidents in Hertfordshire.
- e The role and structure of Hertfordshire Resilience reflects the value which is attached to co-ordinated, multi-agency planning and the importance of organisations being able to deliver a combined response.
- f A command and control system is a vital element of any multi-agency emergency response. Most organisations involved in the emergency response will adopt the following management structure at one or more of the following three levels:
 - 1) Strategic (Gold) – based at Police headquarters

Pirton Parish Council

- 2) Tactical (Silver) – based in the vicinity of the incident
 - 3) Operational (Bronze) – based at the incident site
- g The requirement to implement one or more of these levels will be very dependent on the size and nature of the incident.
- h The Hertfordshire Resilience Multi-Agency Management Structure for a Major Incident is shown in Appendix 2.

5. The Parish Council's Role

- a The Parish Council has an important role in supporting and contributing to the emergency response to the incident as follows:
- 1) Consider deploying resources held by the Parish Council, to assist the response to the major incident.
 - 2) Assist the compilation and distribution of agreed information to the local population.
 - 3) If required, assist in the provision of local labour volunteers to help with tasks identified by the police and under the supervision of appropriate agencies.
 - 4) Provide local information and knowledge to the emergency services and other organisations to assist the response to the incident.
 - 5) If requested, assist the District Council in the identification of premises suitable to be used as a local rest/reception centre(s).
 - 6) Assist in the setting up, operation and participation of public meetings, which will be chaired by the Chairman of the Parish Council and record proceedings, as appropriate.
 - 7) Assist the local authorities, as appropriate, in the rehabilitation of the local community when the incident moves into the recovery phase.
 - 8) Attend and contribute to the incident debriefing process, as appropriate.

6. Other Organisations' Key Roles

- a The Police assume the management and overall co-ordination of all the activities of those responding at and around the scene. (During the recovery stage, the local authority may undertake co-ordination at the strategic level).
- b The Fire Service's first concern is to rescue people and to prevent further escalation of the incident. They also assist the ambulance service with casualty handling, decontamination issues and assist the police with the recovery of bodies.

- c The Ambulance Service is responsible for co-ordinating effective emergency treatment at the scene and transporting the injured, in order of priority, to nominated hospitals.
- d Health Services ensure an effective medical response including requests from the ambulance service to accept casualties and provide trained staff to act as mobile medical teams.
- e Local Authorities provide support for the emergency services, and care for the local and wider community. When the emphasis of the incident switches to recovery, the local authority will lead the co-ordination of response in rehabilitating the local community and restoring the environment.
- f Utility Companies, including industrial and commercial organisations, may provide support and professional expertise to assist the overall emergency response to the incident.
- g The Voluntary Sector can provide support to the emergency and local authorities. They can also assist local authorities in providing social and psychological care. (Organisations include WRVS, St. John Ambulance, British Red Cross, Radio Amateurs Emergency Network, Salvation Army, The Samaritans and the clergy).

Joint Emergency Services Interoperability Programme (JESIP)

To facilitate the best outcome, agencies now operate under the standard JESIP principles for joint working; that is to consider the need for:

- Co location with partners where appropriate
- Recognise the need for communication using plain English
- Co-ordinate activity through the Incident Management Group
- Jointly understanding of risks by sharing information about the potential impact of threats and hazards
- Ensure that partners have a shared situational awareness of the event
